Family Caregiving Funders Collaborative

Recognizing the critically important role that family caregivers play in our society, members of the Family Caregiving Funders Collaborative are supporting caregivers by funding programs, models of care, research, communication and awareness, training, education, and advocacy.

The Collaborative represents more than 25 funders, ranging from small, local, and family foundations to regional and national grantmakers, with a shared commitment to supporting caregivers through innovative programs and policy.

The Funders Collaborative is open to grantmakers currently funding or exploring projects focused in this area. The Collaborative meets monthly through conference calls.

To learn more about how the Collaborative is supporting caregivers and information on joining the conversation, please contact Emily Baransy, ebaransy@giaging.org.

Special thanks to The John A. Hartford Foundation and Archstone Foundation for their support of the Family Caregiving Funders Collaborative.
